

Demand Signal Repository (DSR) – A database that stores large volumes of demand data – such as retailer, POS, inventory, promotional, internal company and third party data.

A centralized repository can be a tremendous advantage when it comes to discovering patterns in consumer demand, multi-channel inventory sell-through, promotion optimization, product profitability, etc.